Fall, winter and spring, school life at Shaler goes on. Events come and go, each producing its own effect on every individual, molding and shaping the adults of tomorrow's world.

Shaleresque attempts to give you an insight into those activities which are so much a part of every American teenager's life; each in its own way is important and contributes to the whole of the individual. Come with us then through a school year at Shaler . . .

SHALER

The Hands of Time

September

Our Huskies got off to a roaring start this season and won all the September games.

October

On October 25 we held our first Homecoming with a float parade, climaxed by crowning Carolie von Stein queen.

Our Home Coming Queen is crowned.

November

During November we closed an impressive football season and the Juniors held their Prom.

December

In a holiday mood we held our door decorating contest, which Mr. Confer's room won for the second time. Also Chapel Choir entertained us with their traditional Christmas Show.

January

Back from the holidays, everyone found it difficult to get in the mood for the oncoming semester exams.

The Shaler Huskies make an offensive play on opponent.

School officials break ground for the new Junior High School.

Move Swiftly By

Eva Williams and Sandy Mathias entertain at the Majorette-Cheerleader Assembly.

February

We started the month off with the Scoop Heart Hop and finished with the very successful Winter Carnival.

March

Spring sports started this month and the Chapel Choir gave the ever popular and inspiring Easter Cantata.

Rose Marie Dulak our May Queen poses for pictures.

April

Upon coming back from Easter vacation the girls began May Day practice. Later in the month the Seniors took their Washington-New York trip.

May

May Day welcomed in the month and the Seniors were busy with the Prom, Bacculareate and Graduation Exercises.

June

The end of another year of school and a leisurely summer ahead of us.

Some Junior High Cheerleaders talk over the new cheers.

The Year Began

It was such a beautiful day that this group of Shaler students couldn't resist hitching a ride in John Rummel's jeep.

We started off the year with a get-acquainted dance the first week, which was held to introduce Klaus Beck to the student body. We previewed our new drum major George Riffner at our first pep rally the following week. The football season started off with a bang when our Huskies beat Hampton.

Dennis Ehrenberger is welcoming Klaus Beck, our exchange student from Germany.

The student council representatives are giving plants to the teachers to welcome everyone back to school the first day in September.

Cross Country

Shaler takes the lead in a Cross Country meet on Little Pine Creek Road.

Under the direction of their new coach, Mr. Ralph Holtz, Shaler High School's cross country team ended its season with a record of 4 wins and 1 loss. The boys took fifth place in both the Central Catholic and Connellsville invitational meets. Shaler took 7th place out of 17 schools entered in the W.P.I.A.L. Cross Country meet at Aliquippa. Heineman finished eighth. This year's team defeated Wilkinsburg, Turtle Creek, Clairton, and N. Allegheny and was defeated by Central Catholic. The lettermen returning this year were: Alan Heineman, Bob Meyers, Tom McGowan, Ed Klause, and Henry Succop.

New sounds and tunes were heard from the Shaler High Band during the 1957-1958 year.

Under the direction of Mr. Myers, the band performed for the football games at half time throughout the season. Together with the major-ettes, the band arranged several clever and original programs. In addition to the football games, the band participated in two band festivals, one in West View, the other in Wilkinsburg.

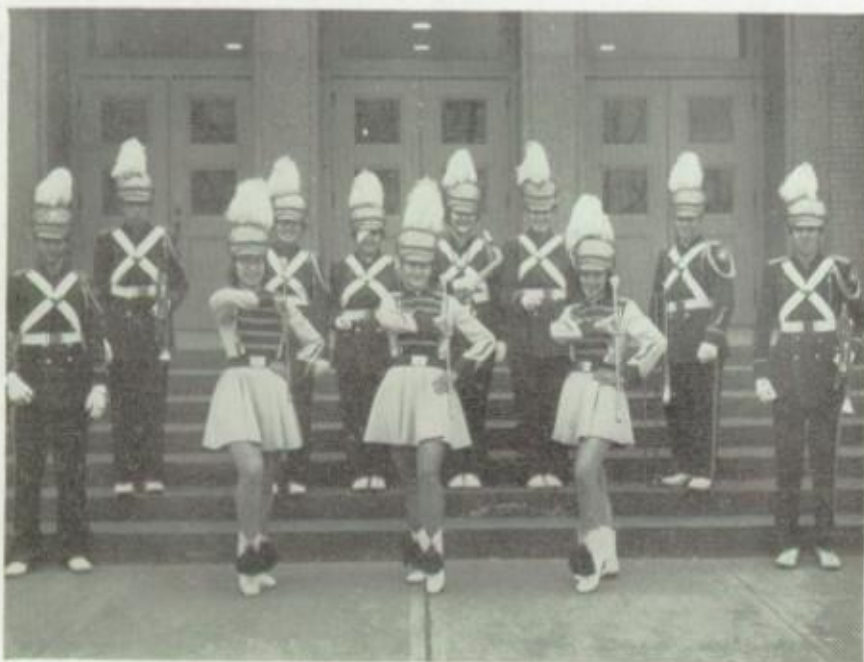

During the summer the band has extensive practice sessions at band camp. Here they plan numbers for future events.

A Junior High Band has been formed by Mr.

Myers to play for the Junior High activities. This band is made up of seventh, eighth, and ninth grade students.

The band concert, which was held in the spring, gave parents and friends an opportunity to hear our concert band.

John Costello pursues a North Catholic player in one of Shaler's most exciting games of the year.

Shaler opened the 1957 football season by defeating Hampton 32-13. Leading 12 to 0 at the half, the team continued to show their superior strength by scoring 3 additional touchdowns against a smaller and lighter Hampton team.

Our Husky football team was victorious for the second time when they downed West View 27-18. Shaler held the Indians after the kickoff and moved the ball right down the field and over the goal line with our Scobbo doing the honors. Shaler continued to hold their opponents by scoring two more touchdowns, one by Scobbo and the other by Malone. West View scored once in the first half as the score stood 20-6. We continued to dominate the game with Scobbo scoring his third touchdown. West View became alive and scored twice, but it was in vain as the Huskies captured their second victory.

The Shaler Huskies suffered their first loss of the season when the North Catholic Trojans defeated them. Shaler scored its first touchdown in the second quarter when Rummel carried for the touchdown. This made the score 6-6 at the half. The teams were battling back and forth without scoring in the third quarter. North scored in the fourth quarter leaving the final score 19-6.

By defeating a weak Swissvale team 34-0, Shaler won its third game, and the first league contest of the year. Rummel scored one touchdown, with Grey and Ruff tallying two each. Although Swissvale's team had been hit hard by the Asian flu, they still managed to put up an admirable fight.

Shaler won its fifth game of the season by defeating Ramsey 39-13. During the second quarter, a pass from Malone completed to Smith set up the first score. After a colorful halftime, marking Shaler's homecoming celebration, the Huskies' Isett scored his third touchdown of the evening. The final score of the game was a run by Husky substitute Nedd.

Shaler's first tie of the season ended 7-7, with Penn High School. Although the Huskies didn't score in the first quarter they still battled on. In the second quarter Isett scored for the Huskies with Lewis converting. The second half proved to be a defensive battle on the part of both teams.

Carnegie, although previously beaten, knocked Shaler out of the running for the WPIAL Class A title by holding the Huskies to a 13-13 tie. Grey took a five-yard pass from Malone to score the first touchdown, and Scobbo scrambled six yards for another TD to climax a 66-yard drive. Lewis kicked for the extra point on the first counter. During the second half, Carnegie came from behind to gain the tie, and it was an odd recovery of the fumble in the end zone that gave Carnegie the deadlock. When Hatcher tried to run for an extra point after a TD in the fourth period, he fumbled the ball, and another Carnegie player recovered it in the end zone to tie the game.

Shaler's Huskies smothered a visiting Bethel team 40-26. Scobbo nailed down two touchdowns for the winning Huskies. Others collecting a TD each were Costello, Isett, Veralde, and Grey. Lewis scored four extra points by placement kicks. Shaler subs saw plenty of action in the second half of the game.

Shaler concluded its 1957 grid season by defeating North Allegheny 39-19. Isett raced 42 yards around left end to score the first touchdown. North Allegheny came back with a successful scoring drive to tie the game. However, Shaler quickly regained the lead when Malone passed to Fred Smith who dashed 47 yards for a touchdown. Then Grey passed 30 yards to F. Smith in the end zone for a third Shaler TD. In the second quarter, Veraldi and Rummel made touchdowns to make the halftime score 33-6. During the third quarter, Scobbo sprinted 74 yards for Shaler's final tally, while North Allegheny scored twice more.

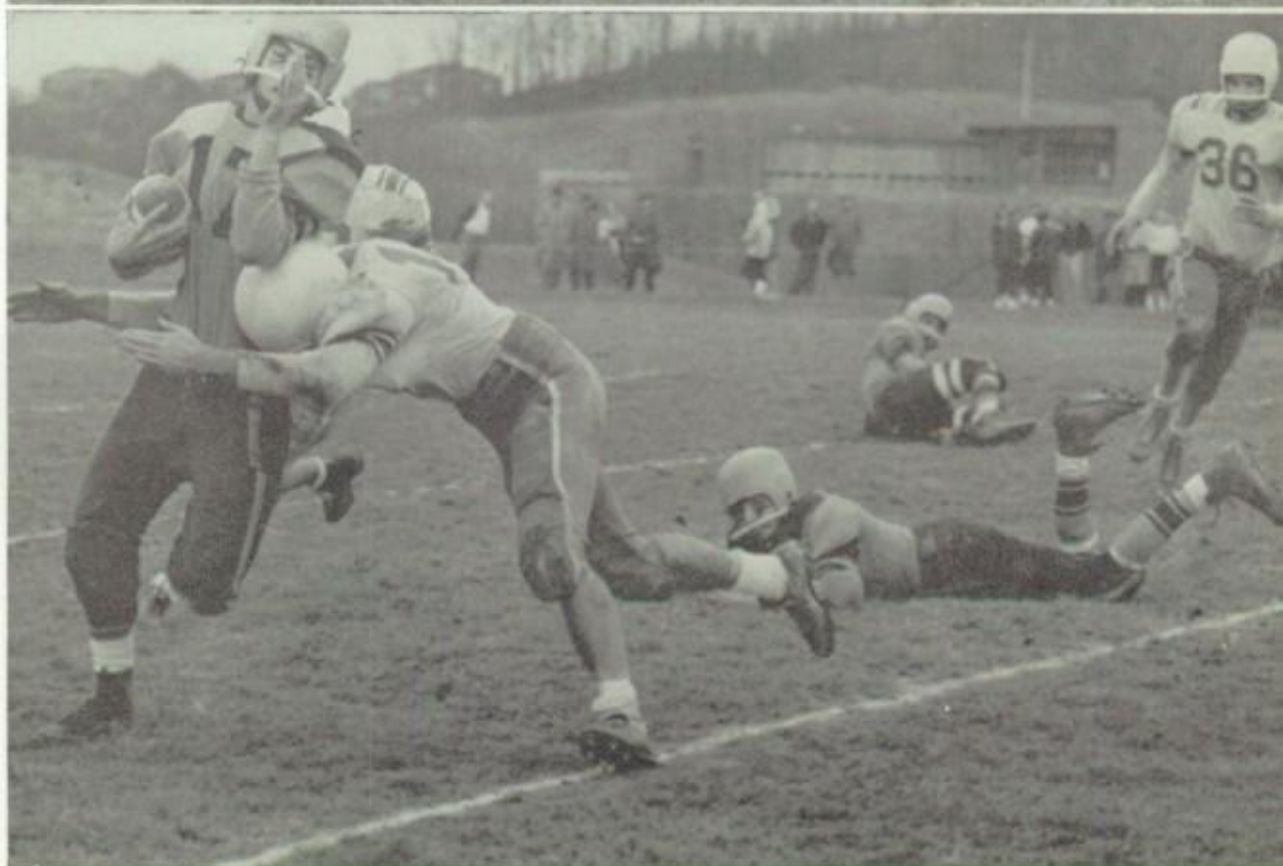

Coach Galbraith advises Bill Sands on a play, while Mr. Dixon anxiously watches the game.

Jim Blackham is tackled by two North Allegheny players as he carries the ball for Shaler.

Dave Rathke blocks a North Allegheny player, attempting to make a run with the ball.

Vera and Rogers try to revive Mrs. Rogers, who lies unconscious.

Anthony, the second one to die, was the victim of a poisoned drink.

Ten Little Indians

The familiar nursery rhyme telling how each Indian met his death was the basis for the exciting mystery, "Ten Little Indians," presented by the class of '58 as its Senior Class Play. Eight guests were asked by an unknown host to stay for a week-end at his strange house on an island off the coast of Devon. An important feature of the house was the cluster of ten china Indian statues on the living room mantle. Above them hung the copy of the nursery rhyme.

As all are gathered in the living room before dinner, a mysterious voice is heard accusing everyone present of murder. As they excitedly exchanged information about themselves, they learned that each of them had in some way been responsible for another person's death, but not in such a way that they could be tried for murder.

When Marston, who had killed two children, choked to death, one of the Indian statues fell from the mantle. Then everyone realized the voice had not been a joke. Mrs. Rogers died in her sleep from an overdose of sleeping medicine; MacKenzie was stabbed; Mr. Armstrong was pushed off a cliff; Rogers was killed with an axe; each in turn met his death according to the rhyme. Each time one died, another Indian toppled from the mantle.

Suspicion and mystery mounted till the final scene when supposedly only Vera and Lombard were left. The play came to a happy ending when it was learned that Wargrave had pretended to be dead so that he could carry out his mad desire to kill with his hands. But, as he is trying to strangle Vera in the last scene, Lombard shoots him.

The happy ending to the rhyme: "One Little Indian Boy, left all alone, he got married—and then there were none," brought the play to a romantic close.

The 1958 Husky basketball team was sparked by three high scoring seniors, Jim Wirth, Joe Fodi, and Dave Lewis, and by two experienced juniors, Dave Ruff and Jim Smith. The rest of the squad was made up mostly of juniors who will be of service on next year's team. Coach Martin spent many hours with the boys teaching them the fundamentals and the rules of good basketball. The results of this hard work showed up in the performance of the boys on the court. Their able handling of the ball and ability to think in tight situations were evident.

After getting off to a rather slow start, the team picked up speed and by the end of the season had a 10 and 12 record. The Huskies overpowered many of their strongest opponents and really showed spirit.

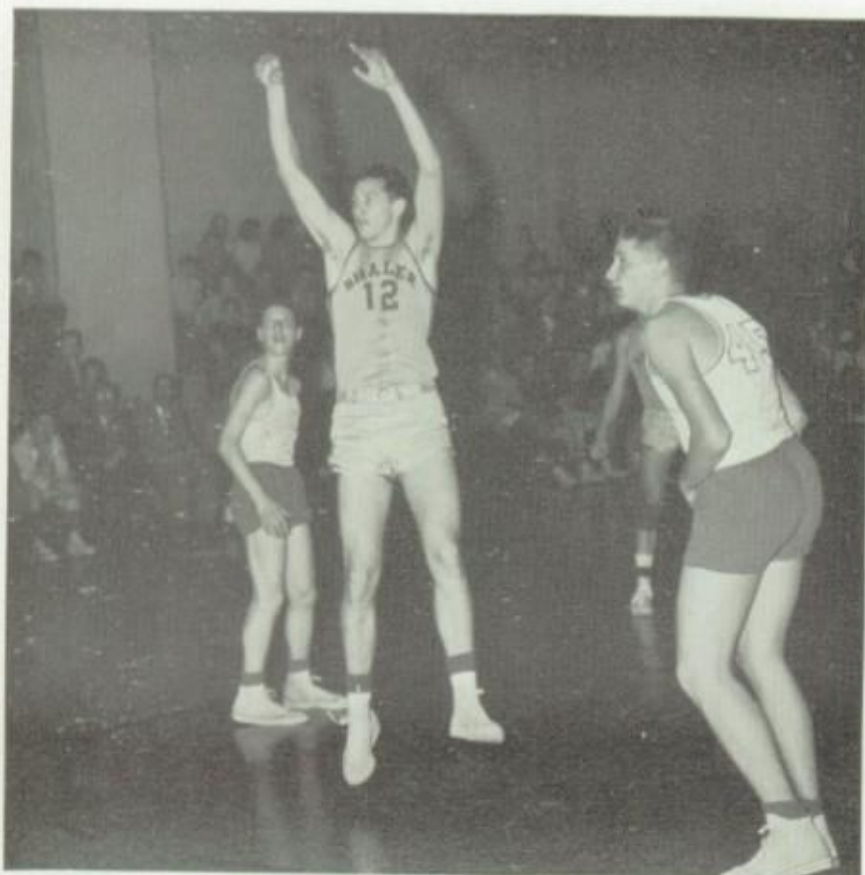

The Huskies' ability to come from behind provided their spectators with many thrilling moments. One such game was against North Allegheny when, with one second left to play and the score tied 41-41, Jim Wirth hooked one from half court to give the Huskies a 43-41 victory.

However, the thrilling games did not all occur away from home. On December 10, against West Deer, the Huskies set a record for the new gym by scoring 82 points during one game.

Jim Wirth, a 6 foot senior, was high scorer for the team with 359 points. Jim played outstanding ball, and his one hand push and jump shots were a boon to the team. With seniors Joe Fodi, Dave Lewis, and Dave Rathke under the boards, the Huskies racked up quite a few re-bounds. Juniors Dave Ruff and Jim Smith promise to be outstanding players next year and, with the experience they have gained, they should help to produce a winning team.

While the Junior Varsity Squad, coached by Mr. Galbraith didn't fare very well in the win-lost column, they did gain valuable experience in teamwork. Two of the high scorers, Dee Howells and Bob Mullen may be very valuable to the varsity squad next year. Both are sophomores, and next year will show improvement of having been on both the Junior High and Junior Varsity squads since coming to Shaler.

Shaler scores again as Joe Fodi sinks one from the center.

Coach Martin gives the squad a pep-talk during the half-time intermission.

This year's wrestling team was rewarded for its diligent practice and work by a record of fourteen wins and one defeat. It was the first season for the squad under the supervision of Mr. Richard Dixon, who succeeded Mr. Forrest Ford as head wrestling coach. Mr. Dixon had a good start for an inaugural season. Boys from all grades, seven through twelve, came out for the team. Future wrestling teams will be greatly improved by having boys from the seventh grade up on the team, for the boys will develop better and have much valuable experience for the future when they reach the senior high. Every evening after school Mr. Dixon drills the boys in new techniques and helps them iron out difficulties.

Dual matches are only the preliminary matches leading up to the tournament and perhaps even the state championship. On Thursday and Friday, March 6 and 7, Shaler was again host to the Annual WPIAL Section I Tournament. Competing schools in the tournament were Shaler, New Castle, Carnegie, Cecil, Mt. Lebanon, West View, North Allegheny and West Allegheny. This is the last year Shaler will be honored by playing host to the annual affair.

Boys receiving letters this season were Dave Kelley, Jerry Weber, Per Madsen, Herb Dodd, Neal Newhouse, Ray Miller, Bob John, Bob Moore, Ed Frohnafel, Bill Golla, and John Ashbaugh, all consistent winners.

Rifle Team

This year our rifle team set quite a record for the first time in Shaler's history. The team broke a record when five of our students individually shot perfect scores of 100, which gave the team a perfect score of 500. This happened twice this year, in the last two matches of a season which began in December and ended in March. Our team has members from ninth through twelfth grades. Not all members participate in the matches; only the five who are highest in the shoot-off fire in a match. The shoot-off takes place the day before the match and all members shoot; the ones scoring highest place and are then eligible to shoot in the match. We feel this is very democratic because it gives each member an equal chance each time.

The team also participated in postal matches. In these opponents shot their matches in their own schools and then sent the scores to our rifle team. We do the same. Both teams compare the scores and whoever comes out on top wins.

The rifle team from all schools meet in a WPIAL match and Shaler placed second in the 1958 tourney.

The Councils

Shaler High Student Council is a group of active students consisting of officers, appointed chairmen, and elected representatives from all homerooms.

Several activities have been continuations from previous councils. The New Year started with the senior council sponsoring dances after all home football games. Door decorations at Christmas were also continued. Mr. Confer's homeroom, 11-5, received first prize in the senior high; while Mr. Wargo's homeroom, 7-C, won the first prize in the Junior High contest.

A new project, which proved successful, was the homecoming float parade during the Ramsey football game. All clubs responded enthusiastically to the request from council to enter a float depicting their activity. A winning float was selected and its queen reigned over the entire celebration. This year's winner was Leaders' Club with Carolie vonStein as the queen.

This year, track at Shaler has proved to be very interesting. Several records were broken at the start of the season. Chuck Smith started them off in the first meet by throwing the discus 130 feet, setting a new record for this event.

Mr. Lodge and the other track coaches came up with the idea of "Know your Husky Thin-clads." This was a project to promote track by making its participants better known to the students, through placing the pictures of the boys in the lobby showcase.

Baseball

The boys on the team wait for their turn at bat. Jim Wirth hits a fast ball into right field, bringing in two runs for Shaler.

The Shaler Husky baseball team is looking forward to an exciting season. Coach Ben Martin believes the team will do very well if it can find an exceptionally good pitcher. All of the other positions, with the exception of second base, are filled.

One thing the team really needs, other than players, is a stimulating crowd which would encourage the team to play good ball.

In order to get a larger number of fans to attend the games, Shaler needs bleachers. Since this project is still in the future, let's continue to get behind the Husky nine with our best Shaler spirit and root for the Martinmen.

Chester Billings, the town's newspaper reporter, takes a publicity picture of Gale with Bud, her date, for the school dance. Jack, Gail's agent and Helen, Bud's first date for the dance, watch from the sidelines.

Best Foot Forward

For our Junior Play, the class of '58 presented "Best Foot Forward," a comedy of college humor. The scene takes place at a prom held by the students of Winsocki Prep School. The play revolves around Bud, who, after seeing Gale Joy, a famous movie star, in a movie, writes and invites her to the school dance. When Gale accepts his invitation to the big week-end, Bud is very surprised. Now he must write and tell Helen, his girl, that he is sick and ask her not to come to the dance. Unfortunately Helen comes to the dance regardless of his letter and presents a problem to Bud, who now has two dates. In an effort to help him, even Bud's roommates become involved in the situation. To make matters still worse, Gale deliberately incites a riot at the college in order to receive some publicity. Doctor Reeber also makes things more difficult by threatening to expell Bud. This really upsets everyone. Despite the confusion and trouble which is brought about by Helen and Gale, fun is had by all.

Dutch and Satchel are busy with last minute preparations for the girls' arrival.

Satchel and Hunk are astonished to see movie star, Gale Joy, in their bedroom.

spring
fancies

As the third dismissal bell rings, the last of the students hurry out to the buses.

Spring comes to Shaler even before the calendar shows that it is spring. Preparations for May Day begin in January, while the snow is still on the ground. As the weather begins to get warm, the gym classes move outside and basketball and wrestling are replaced by track and baseball.

Spring is the busiest time of the year for Seniors. Graduation and Baccalaureate practices begin weeks in advance. In addition to all this, the Senior Trip occurs in April. Because of the increased tempo with so much to do, spring comes and goes very quickly at Shaler.

Gerry Romig, Holly Best, Karen Ford, and Mary Lou Reno were the four Shaler Junior girls who applied to the American Field Service to spend the summer abroad.

We had six students visit Shaler as guests of Student Council. These students from Shillington High School were—Seated: Gloria Krick, Susie Brown; Standing: John Frankhouser, Shaler's Dennie Ehrenberger, Jon Zellers, Kenny Wetzel, Sandy La Van.

In the American Legion Essay Contest Pat Vresh came in third, John Mroz first, and Pat Gardner second.

Awards

Shaler students look forward to many of the scholastic awards that are presented to them each year based on their abilities.

The American Legion sponsored their annual speech and essay contests, rewarding the winners with money prizes. Also, the highest honor student in each course receive a medal.

For the students with a "B" average or better, the Junior and Senior Honor Societies recognize them for their scholastical aptitudes, leadership, and character. During the year special programs are held, including a benefit movie which raises money for the School for the Blind.

Scenes

Shaler, with its modern building and spacious classrooms provides an excellent educational opportunity.

Music

Barbara Simms, one of three senior girls taking organ lessons, receives instruction and help from Mr. Bell.

Under the direction of G. Raymond Bell, once again the Chapel Choir has had a very active year. For the first activity they presented the annual Thanksgiving assembly. Following this was the beautiful Cantata, "Adoramus Te," which describes the birth of Christ. To be more realistic a pageant depicting this particular scene was displayed in the background. Their next program was a mid-winter music session with all current favorites such as, "Fascination," "Catch A Falling Star," and "Do I Love You." This year Chapel Choir was honored to have been selected to join the Forensic League which is composed of many choirs among the western district junior and senior high schools.

There are many different choral groups at Shaler which participate in assemblies as well as give public appearances for local organizations. Many students take private lessons to improve themselves in singing with the choral groups at school. One of our students, Margaret Zook, attended State Chorus in Oxford, Pennsylvania, which is quite an honor since only 200 students from high schools all over Pennsylvania.

The choir consists of juniors and seniors chosen for their musical aptitude. Many, not only have singing ability, but also play musical instruments. They add much to our school and community with good wholesome song and music.

Those whose voices blend particularly well make up smaller groups, such as the Monarchs, Girls' Trios and the Octette and are used for special variety numbers.

Shaler's Sophomore Chorus, consisting of forty-seven boys and girls, is a popular training ground for Chapel Choir members. Tenth graders, chosen by Mr. Bell after auditions, work together through the year preparing selections for assembly programs, community groups, and the music festival. In addition to singing on their own, the chorus joins with the Chapel Choir in presenting such works as the "Hallelujah Chorus" during the Easter assembly given for both schools.

Some Shaler students take part in smaller singing groups such as the Boys' Octet, the Senior Girls' Trio, and the Junior Girls' Trio. In these groups, the participants have the opportunity to sing a wide variety of music types, ranging from the latest "pop" tunes to hymns.

Our Junior High Chorus has thirty members who provide the special programs for the Junior High assemblies. The chorus sings all types of songs—art, musical comedy, folk, and modern.

The Chapel Choir section leaders are — Seated: Chuck Stul, Dale Kitzky, Dave Bonnett, Ray Miller, and George Riffner; Standing: Barbara Simms, Jo Politylo, June Thomas, Edie Haughton, Pat Gardner, and Ed Flower.

Some of Mr. Miller's seventh grade music students work out a rhythm exercise.

Music and Art

The Christmas Art Bazaar was one of the many projects done by our Shaler High art students this year. The beautiful display of jewelry and sculpture was supervised by Mr. Lakowski. Since this project was such a success, the class plans to sponsor another bazaar next year. Although Mr. Chadderdon's students did not participate in the bazaar, they were responsible for the seasonal decorations which made the cafeteria attractive. These imaginative decorations ranged from Hallowe'en masks to Christmas tree ornaments to a tree vivid with unusual and effective paper Easter eggs.

Music, as well as art, is a popular subject and covers quite an extensive field at Shaler. Mr.

An impromptu singing group is formed in a ninth grade music class.

One of the first things the seventh graders learn in art class under Mr. Chadderdon's supervision, is the basic fundamentals of pastel work.

Miller's music classes are looked forward to each day, because of the way in which he presents music to his students. Records of famous composers are played to try to further student interest in music. Organ lessons given by Mr. Bell are available to all senior high students who have had a sufficient background in piano. Mr. Meyers, Band Director, also gives lessons on many individual instruments to both junior and senior high students for the betterment of the band.

The Senior High art students learn to design and make their own jewelry. Dale Ehrlichman, Linda Holliday, and Krepin work on this interesting project.

In Mr. Lakowski's advanced art class, some of the students work with water colors during one of their class periods.

Eighth graders Suzan Fitch, Richard Heberle, and Paula Phelan, present their reports on adventure books.

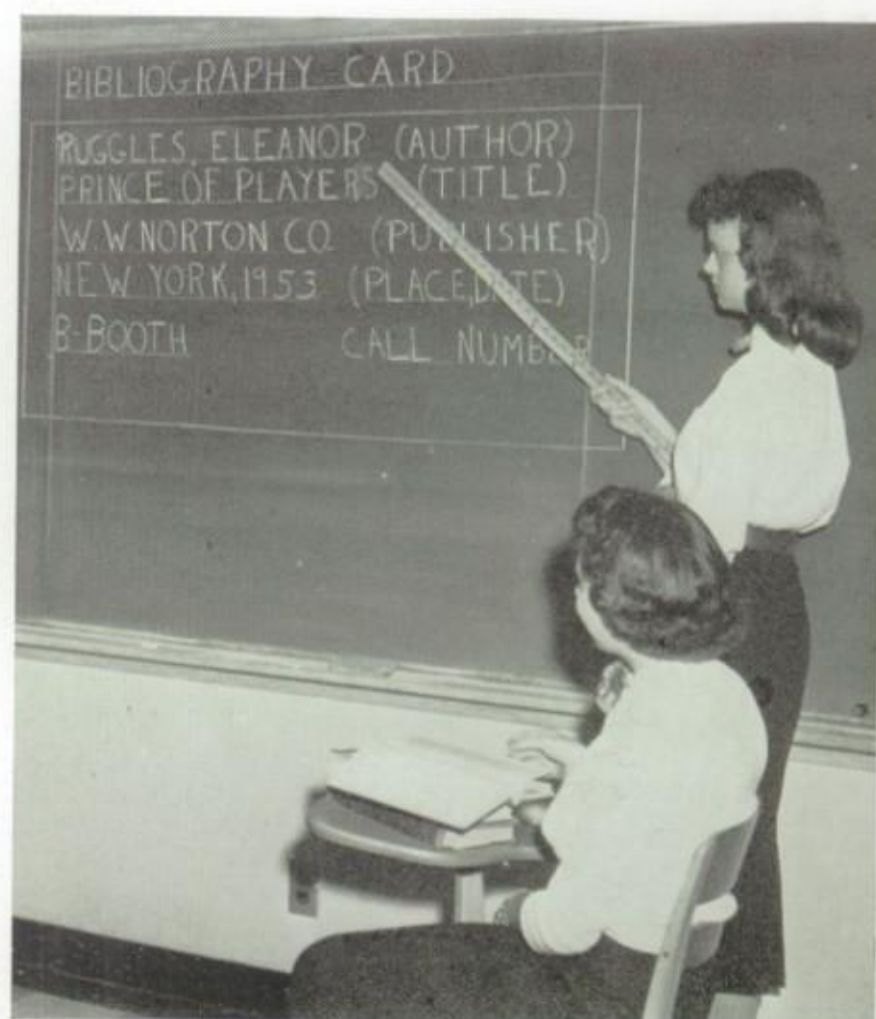

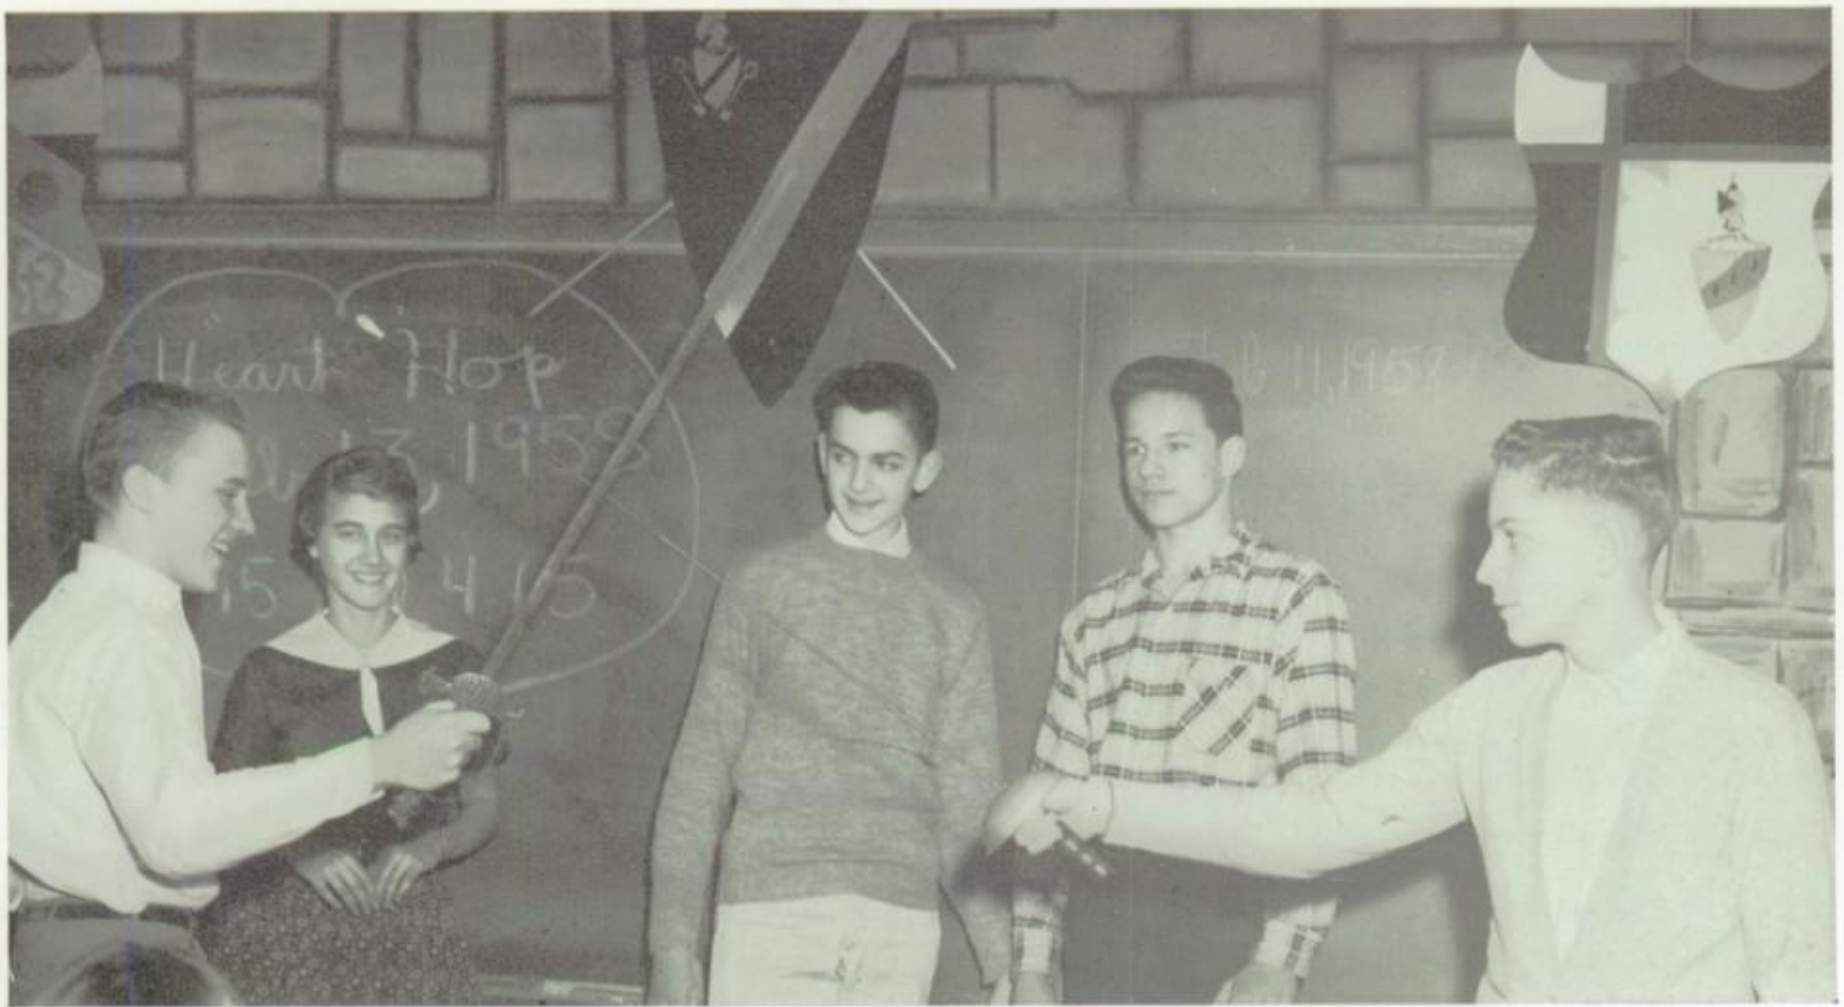

English

English is, of course, a required subject for all students in both junior and senior high school. In all basic courses the year's work is divided evenly between literature and grammar. All classes are stressing particularly the logical organization of ideas and improved expression of these ideas in such forms as themes, research, papers, essay exams, and speech activities.

Literature study in each grade centers around an anthology, but, in addition, each class has some longer literary work which is the year's major project. Thus, ninth graders read Ivanhoe and work enthusiastically on shields, lances, and even replicas of castles to bring greater realism.

Barbara Dillon shows Camille Rizza the correct way to fill out a bibliography card for material used in preparing term papers.

Ron Wetzel, Jill Arnold, Jim Potyka, John Kuzniewski, and Jerry Moon, react a scene from Ivanhoe in Mr.

Yenias' 9C class. Many projects, such as swords, shields, coats-of-arms helped vitalize the story.

to the story. Movies, tape recordings, panel discussions on Shakespeare's life and times all add to student enjoyment and appreciation of Julius Caesar and Macbeth.

Shaler's seniors have a choice of English classes: academic students can choose between college preparatory and general English, while commercial students can select either business or general English. Then, those who wish additional English experience may select English composition, journalism, or speech. Because of this integrated junior-senior high school program, any Shaler graduate should have an adequate background in English composition and literature.

This year Scoop is no longer an activity but is a full credit course in journalism. As the staff learned the functions of various parts of a paper or how to write a good feature or new article, they proceeded to use their knowledge in Scoop. The "learn by doing" process made an interesting class at the same time it provided a better newspaper for the school. Maggie Zook was the editor who coordinated the activities of all the staff members and Miss Bechtel was the sponsor.

Shaleresque this year is presenting a book with a different plan of organization. Instead of the usual sections, we go from the beginning of the term, in Fall, to the end, in June, and portray the school year as it actually occurs. The book is planned and written by a staff of Seniors under Mrs. Corda's direction. The Senior Class is entirely responsible for the production and financing of the yearbook.

Peggy Peterman and Jim Benthin display constructions which they made as a project in plane geometry.

Mathematics

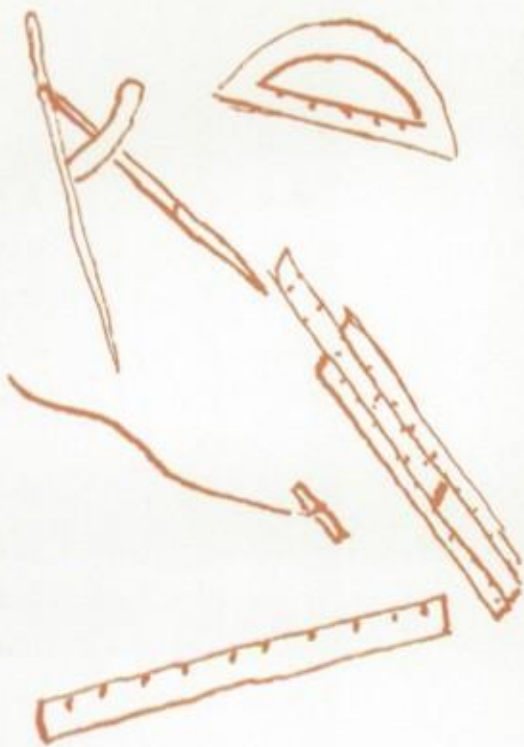

The teaching of mathematics forms an important part of our educational program at Shaler. All students, no matter which curriculum they choose, have the opportunity to study some form of mathematics.

In Junior High, a new program has been instituted in the past two years. All seventh graders study general arithmetic and at the end of the year are given a placement test. Those who did well on the test were permitted to take Algebra I in eighth grade while the others took another year of general arithmetic. Ninth grade students had their choice of either Algebra I or General Math.

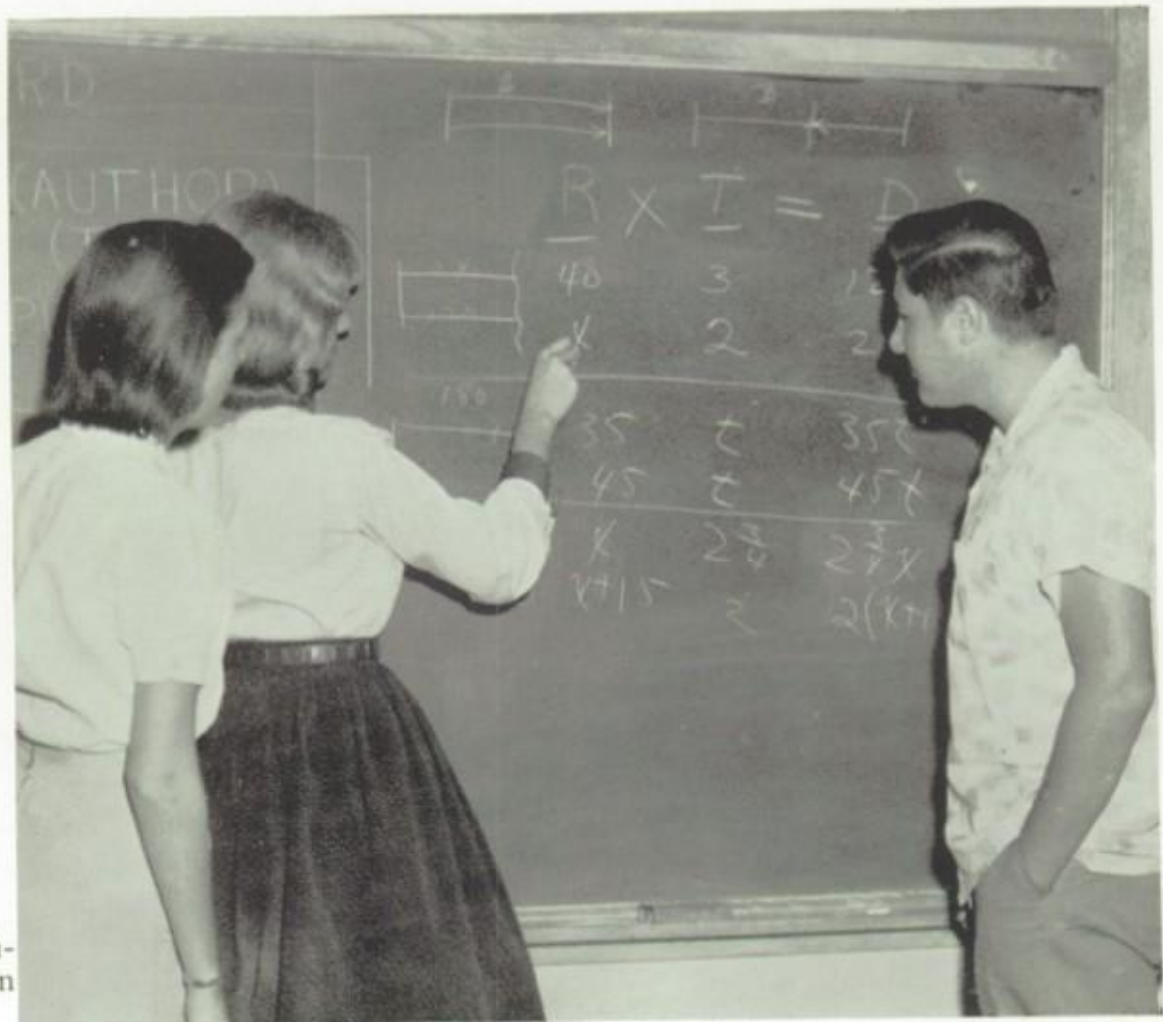

In the Senior High the academic program offers a sequence of Plane Geometry, Algebra III, Trigonometry, and Solid Geometry. In addition, seniors may elect to take pre-college math, which gives the student a good preparation for first year college courses. Commercial and general students take business math, general business training, and Bookkeeping I and II. Juniors and Seniors in all curricula may elect Senior Math which is a review of general arithmetic and basic algebraic and geometric principles.

Jane Mickley, Jim Blackham, and Jerry Weber illustrate a theorem for Mr. Auld's solid geometry class.

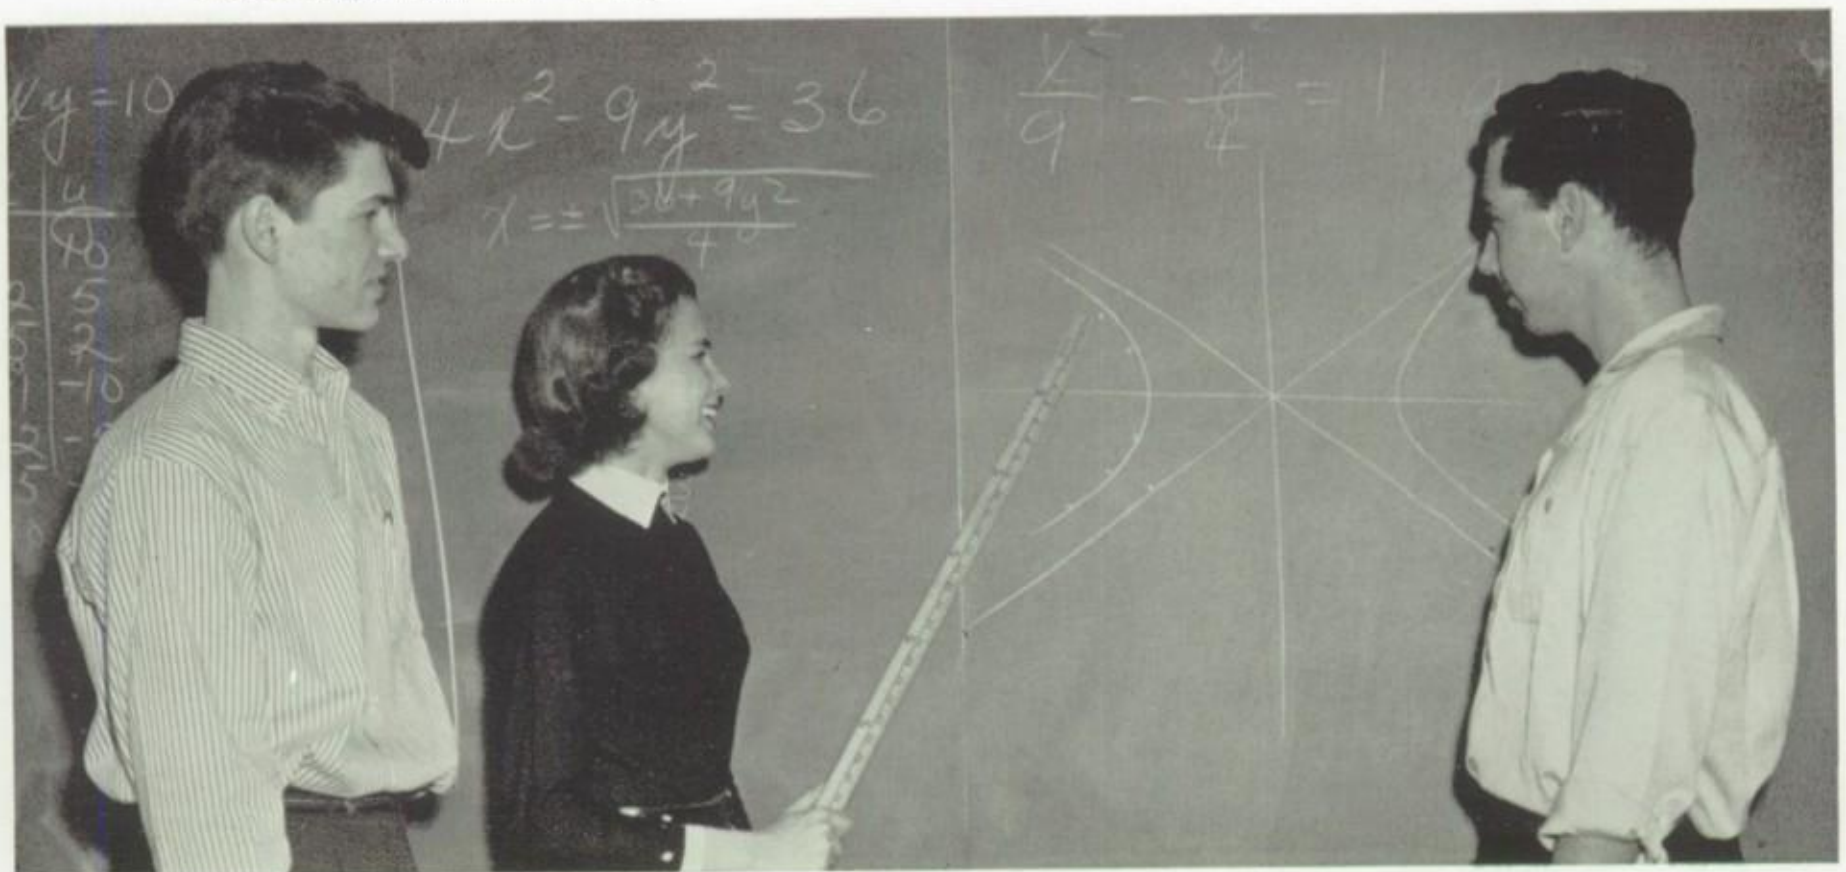

Judy Arnold shows the correct method of solving a distance problem in Algebra III.

Since Shaler offers a broader mathematics education than most schools, students who take advantage of this are well prepared whether they go on to college or go into the world of business.

The goal of the Shaler math program is the development of students who can think through problems and solve them quickly and accurately, knowing both the theoretical and practical aspects.

Joyce Cooke explains the formation of a hyperbola to Frank Hayes and Jim Cooper.

Social Studies

What have our history students been doing this year? Seventh grade world history students were successful with their entries in the Histo-rama Show. Shalerites won eight third places and four honorable mentions.

Eighth grade American History students submitted exhibits to the Buhl Planetarium. These were beautifully colored maps, special projects, and reports for which Shaler won three prizes.

Ninth grade Pennsylvania History students studied the history of Pittsburgh industrial firms. In the spring, ninth grade history students took vocational guidance tests which were brought back this year by popular demand.

In tenth grade, world history students are shown slides from Italy, Greece, Egypt, Switzerland, England, and Mexico. By these slides the students can see how people all over the world live and understand them.

American history students in eleventh grade wrote biographies on the first sixteen presidents of the United States as part of their every day curriculum.

In twelfth grade the POD students gave committee reports on the South. They also had many interesting discussions in class.

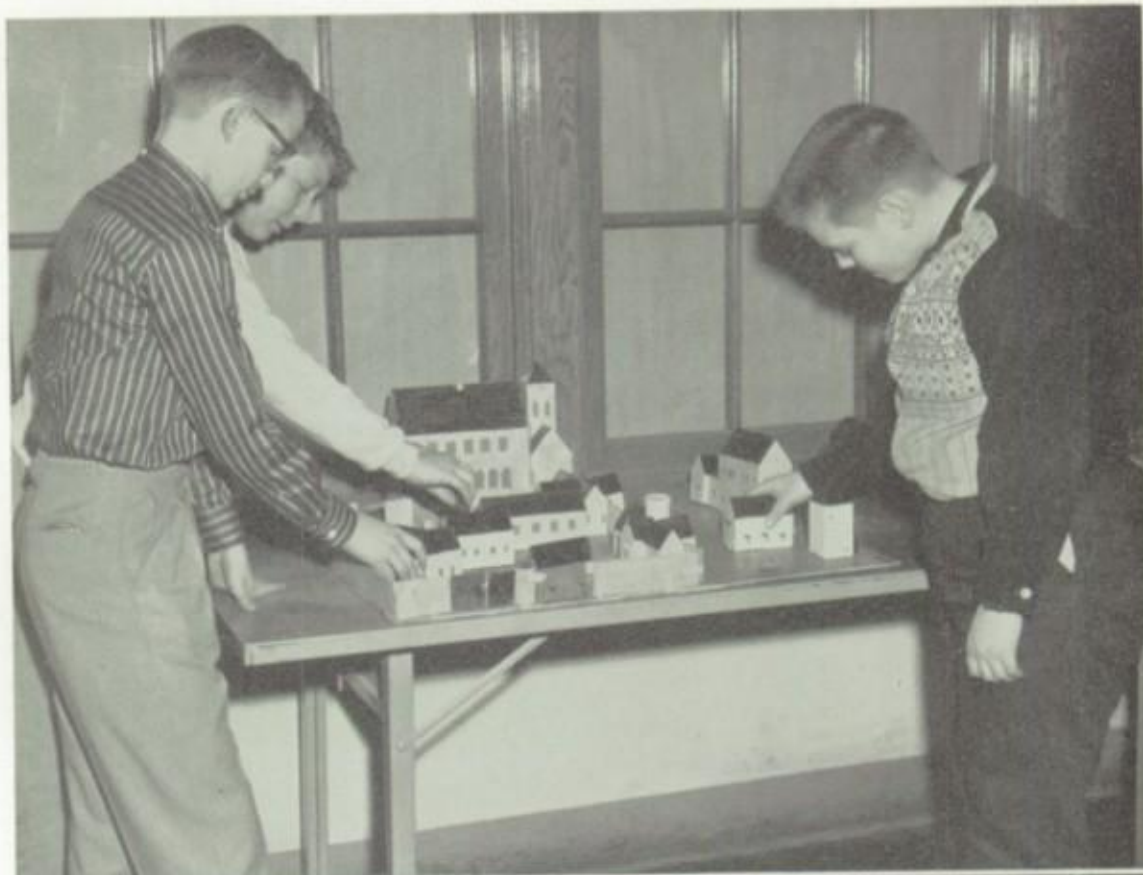

Miss Aaron gives Bob Trowbridge and Glenda Ackinclose some pointers on how to tape their reports in history class.

Miss Aaron and a group of tenth grade students gather around a map of the ancient world during a discussion of early history.

Three eighth grade students arrange their project for history class.

Danny Burton and two of his classmates chart wind currents in 7th grade geography.

Greta Moss and Peggy Fisher, with two fellow classmates, work on a problem for world geography.

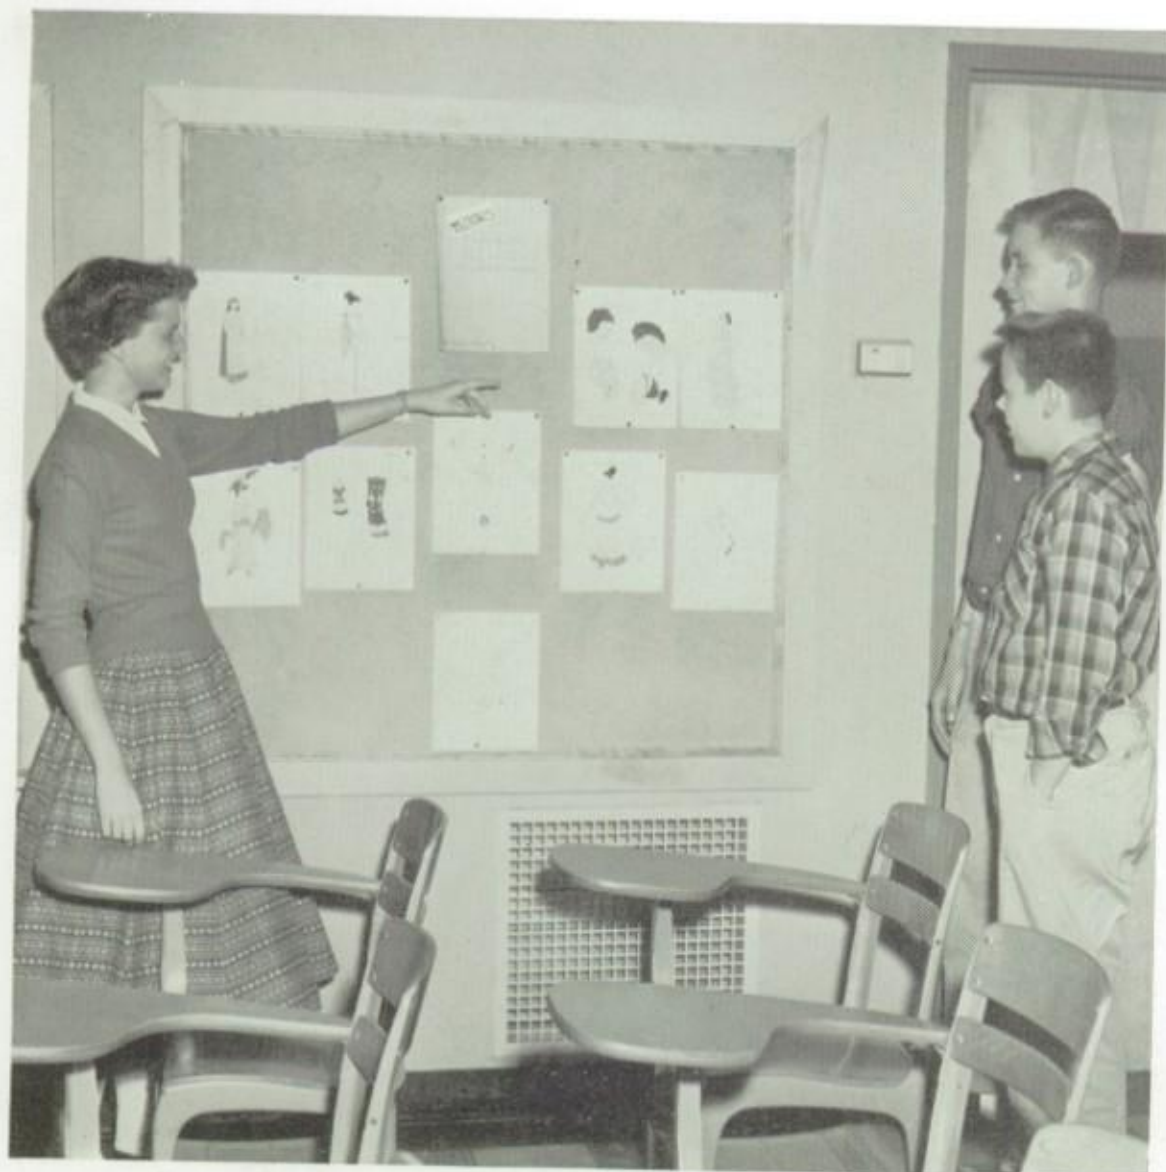

Foreign Languages

Spanish I and II seem to be gaining in popularity with Shaler students. Spanish I introduces the basic ideas of the culture and origin of the language, while Spanish II brings out the common usage of it. Mrs. Obenauf, the teacher of these classes, holds the interest of the pupils by discussing Spanish customs in the classroom.

Mrs. Mercer conducts both of the French classes. French I strives to give the basic principles of French grammar and provide experience in conversation; also included in the course is French culture. French II supplies additional instruction in leadership and encourages class recitation. A club is organized to enrich the programs given throughout the school year.

Jack, Barb, and Kathy watch their cards as Jim calls the numbers while they play the French version of Bingo.

Jane Bartniki points out interesting Latin posters on the bulletin board.

Bob John, Sandy Henninger, and Donna Rouda explain to the class the different patterns which appear on various Spanish potteries.

Latin I has come up with something new this year. Any eighth grade student who is interested in taking Latin may take it if he is able to pass a prognostic test. One can advance and take Latin II. Mrs. Hass and Mrs. Mercer certainly try to join both pleasure and learning together in a well-rounded course by playing games and singing popular songs in Latin.

Eileen Heller and Henry Hissrich point out a city in central Spain for their Spanish class in a discussion of the principal cities of Spain, their outstanding aspects and important features.

Delores Cook and Noreen Newhouse whip up a cake in Home Economics class. This is a class you can really get your teeth into!

Marie Tessmer, Judy Pfischer, Mary Wolf, and Diane O'Dell work carefully fitting the pattern to the fabric.

Home Economics

Home Economics is taught to all girls in seventh, eighth, and ninth grades for two periods each week as a required course; to the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade students five periods a week as an elective.

Girls are taught fundamental courses in home-making which will help make them better family members in their present homes and to plan ahead for their future homes in order to become future homemakers of America.

In addition to sewing and food preparation courses, shopping, nutrition, interior decoration, family relationship, child care, and grooming are included in the year's work.

This year the Junior High classes made cuddly little dolls and stuffed animals at the end of the first semester, and everyone found this interesting.

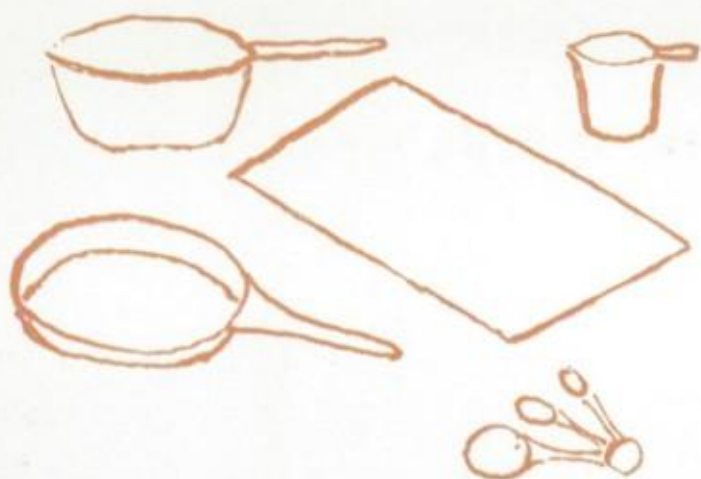

In all sewing classes, the work done on the garment must be done in class under the supervision of the teacher with no work being done at home.

Sandy Winegard, Donna Wright, and Isabelle Spangenberg wait as Pat Shaw and Renee Weihaus serve them the meal they have just cooked.

Sandy Nichter pins in the hem on Sandra Spitler's jumper.

Mrs. Pink talks to Senior Home Ec students Nancy Copes, Lorene Usnick, Jean Bauer, Fran Matyaca, and Carol Barnes on the correct way to set a dinner table.

In a Junior High shop class, the boys gain experience in woodworking by planing wood surfaces.

Industrial Arts

Shop is one of the most popular courses taught at Shaler. There are three sections of shop: Senior High metal shop which includes the making of ashtrays, bookends, and other small articles. Senior High wood shop projects include the making of coffee tables, end tables, bookcases, gun racks, cedar chests, and deck chairs. Mechanical drawing teaches the boys the proper method of using measuring instruments.

Junior High shop is a required subject and their projects are also required.

The fundamentals of Junior High Shop are taught by Mr. Segina and the course is open to all Junior High boys. It gives the fellows their first chance to discover their ability in mechanics. Students turn out shadow boxes, cookie cutters, and beautiful coffee tables. This prepares the boys to do more advanced work when they reach Senior Shop and have more equipment.

Shop students do many projects for the school, such as making the booths for Winter Carnival, which add much to Shaler.

Tim Rihn and Joseph Peluso work on their project, a bookcase, in senior wood shop.

Mr. Segina works with a junior high shop class in solving a measurements problem.

Andy Martin and Frank Ruckdeshel apply solder to the funnels they are making in metal shop.

Florence Franke is learning some of the rules of being an accurate secretary from Mrs. Wagner.

Commercial

Shaler has one of the finest commercial curriculums ever offered. All the subjects needed in preparing for the business world are here at our feet. All that one need do is take advantage of the courses offered.

At Shaler commercial students are provided with superior training in shorthand, commercial mathematics, business training, bookkeeping, type-writing, office machines, and Business English.

A student is required to take at least two years of either shorthand or bookkeeping to qualify for a commercial diploma. A two year course in typing is offered also. The office practice classes give a student a very excellent opportunity to do work on his own, to become acquainted with general office atmospheres, and to become familiar with the up-to-date office equipment.

Immediately after graduation many students will enter the business world. Their high school background is often sufficient for a basic office job. A student is given all possible assistance in acquiring work. The training and guidance offered our students may be compared to that offered by a business school. It is thorough, complete, and most helpful.

Girls in Miss Bauer's Shorthand I Class are learning the fundamental characters of shorthand to help them build speed and accuracy for taking dictation.

Mr. Halechko is helping Janet Miller work out the correct forms for partnership booking in Bookkeeping II class.

Many students have completed their Commercial years feeling that they have learned a great deal from their classes. Students are sent to different companies to place their applications which gives them experience in seeing what is required of them. After this opportunity is given to them, they feel that their chance of getting a job is not really difficult to find.

Students in Miss Long's first year typing class are doing timed writings to improve their speed and ac-letters, cutting stencils, and typing documentary letters. Two years of shorthand is also offered. The first year teaches the fundamentals and the theory of shorthand while the second year classes are devoted completely to the idea of producing speed and accuracy through constant practice. In the two year bookkeeping course students are able to acquire sufficient skill to be able to keep books for most offices and companies. Thus, with this background, Shaler commercial students can usually step immediately from high school into jobs which demand skill, sense of responsibility, and which, incidentally, pay well.

Lorene Usnick explains to Jean Bauer the basic steps of the work sheet in Bookkeeping II class.

Science

Neal Newhouse and Bill Sands experiment with a siren disk in physics lab.

General Science, Bio-Agriculture, Biology, Chemistry and Physics constitute the science program offered to Shaler students.

In addition to having all the required instructors and texts necessary for a good science department Shaler also provides us with extras. Spacious modern laboratories and new and better equipment give students the opportunity to carry out the necessary experiments needed to prove theory. Field trips also prove to be most helpful.

With all these fine courses available, students leave Shaler with a basic science background applicable for future use.

Karla Kottas performs an experiment of acids and bases in chemistry class.

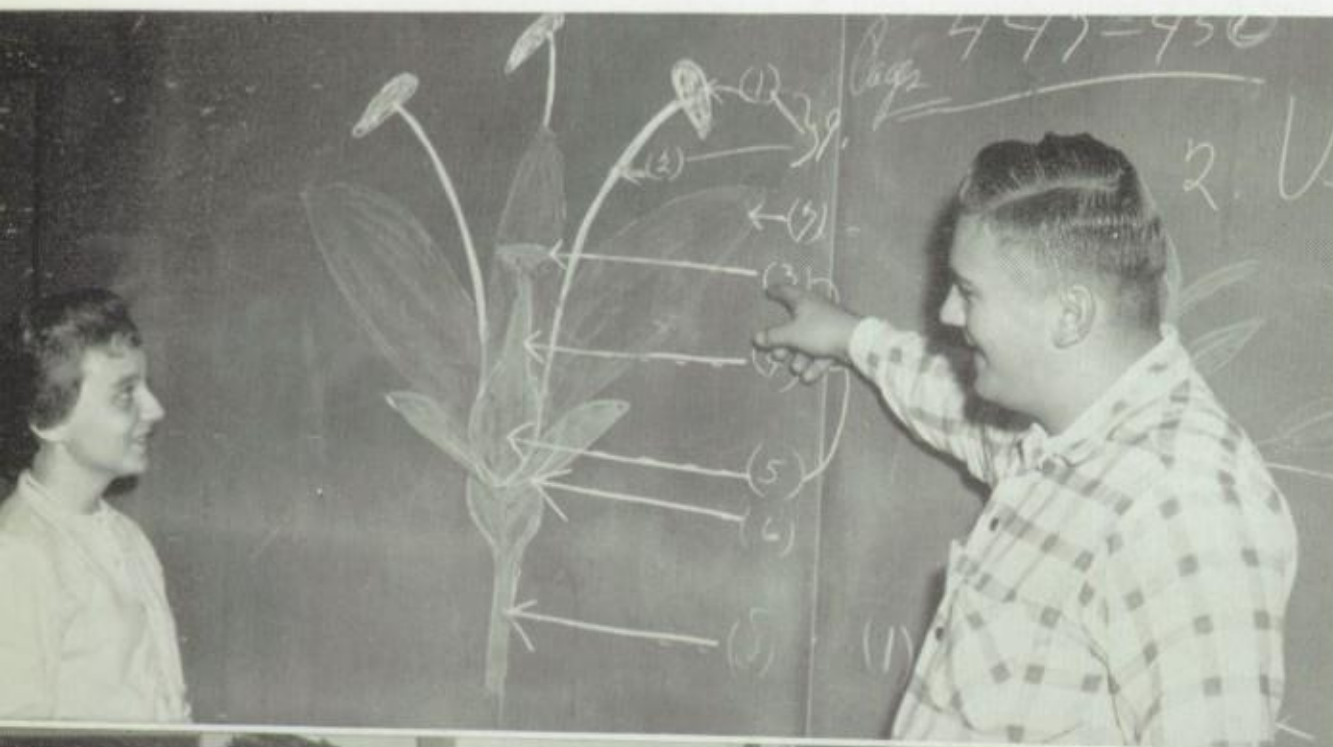

Mr. Little's tenth grade biology class draw diagrams and specimen for their notebooks.

Two Radio Club members, Paul Chabot and John Rummel, tune in the short wave receiver in preparation for an amateur broadcast.

The Shaler High School science department offers to all students a general knowledge in a science of their own choosing. In ninth grade, the students receive a basis in general science from Mr. Dodds and Mr. Dixon that paves the way for more difficult scientific studies in future years. Tenth graders have a choice of biology or bio-ag. During the course of the year, Mr. Zook instructs the bio-ag students in planting a garden box and in doing simple landscaping. Mr. Little provides an intensive study of the plant and animal kingdom for the sophomore biology students and starts the senior biology class in the fundamentals of psychology. Chemistry and physics classes, under the direction of Mr. Confer, conduct experiments in which the students actively participate.

Dave Kelley and Allen Heineman study leaves they collected on a recent expedition while Kathy Kier, Klaus Beck, Jerry Weber, and Sally Kaltenborn discuss their leaf notebooks.

In Mr. Zook's biology class Thaddeus Szymanski points out the parts of a flower to Carol Lee Miller.

Jim Cooper and Jim Cambell work in an experiment on sound waves with the oscilloscope.

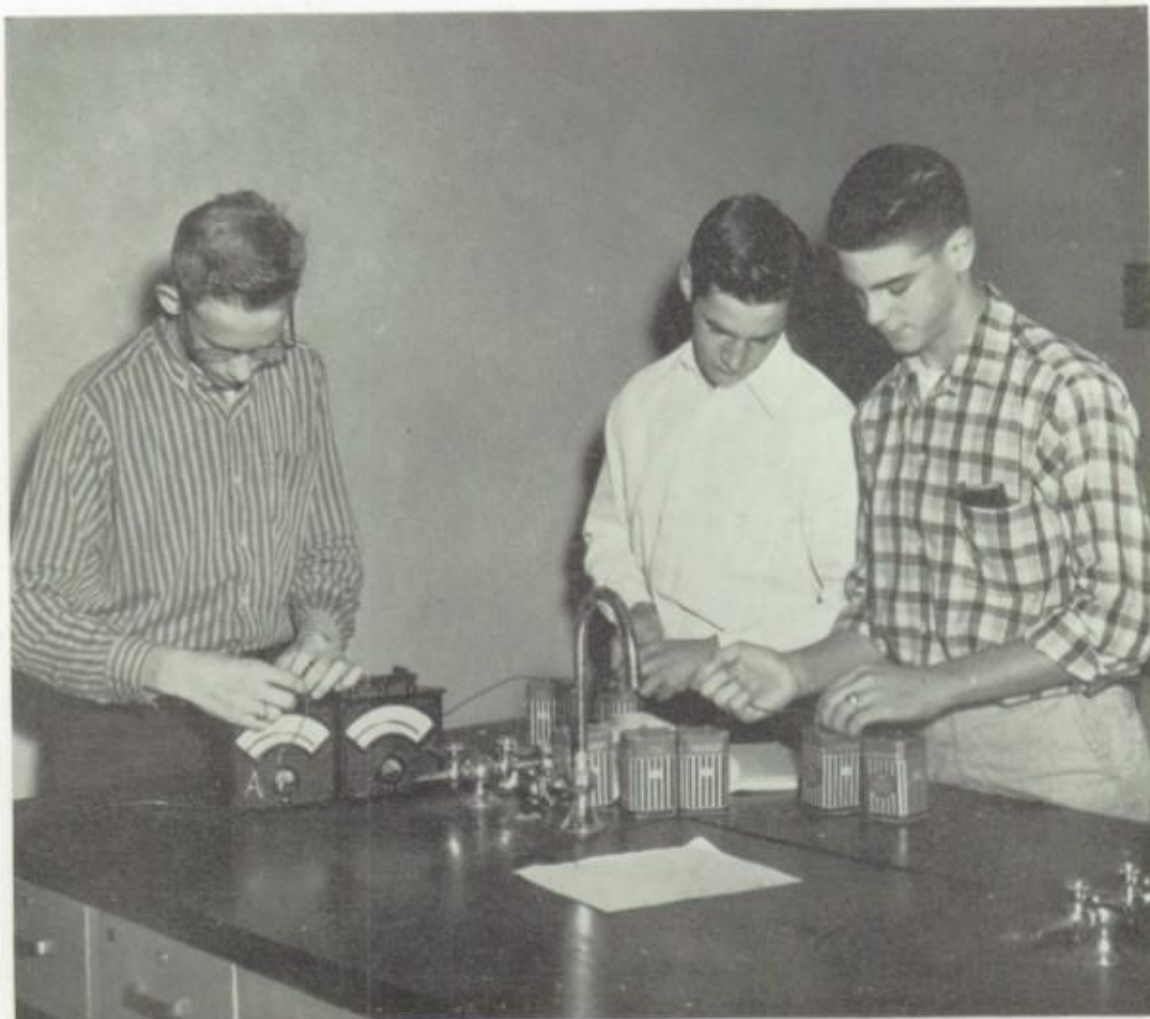

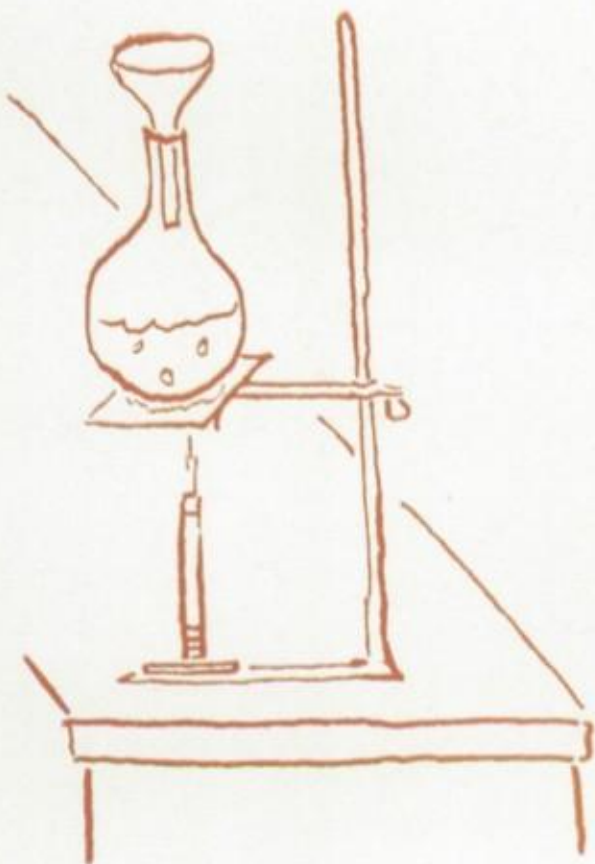

Joanne Boles demonstrates to Dave Bonnett, Sally

Kaltenborn, and Jim Richardson, the correct technique of making slides for Senior Biology.

Many of our science students entered their projects in the Buhl Planetarium Science fair this year. Among them were seventh grader, Tom Carlson; eighth grader, John Swetnam; and tenth grader, Paul Carson. In the senior high school

Kurt Nestel won the preliminaries of the School Science Quiz given over WQED television. Later on he went to the top again, making him eligible for a scholarship to either the University of Pittsburgh or Carnegie Tech.

Calisthenics are only a part of the boys gym class. Mr. Martin does well in leading and training the boys.

Your future life, whether it is in the armed forces or civilian life.

Some of the gymnast members are learning new techniques in tumbling for the big gymnast review.

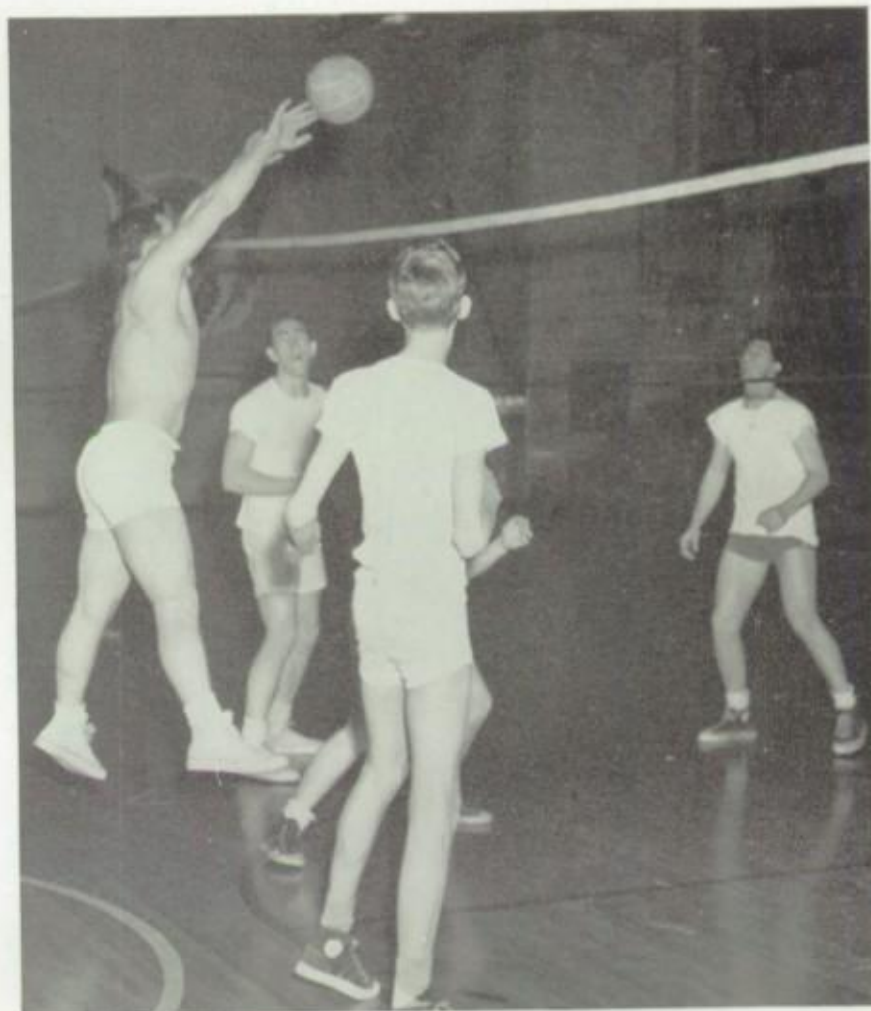

Physical Education

Shaler's gym classes have a well-trained staff of teachers. Mr. Seibert and Mr. Martin teach the boys physical education while Mr. Galbraith teaches health. The boys participate in a rigorous course. Tough football, softball, basketball, volley ball, and wrestling are the more interesting sports included in their program. Some of the others in which they take part are field and track events, calisthenics, soccer, and tumbling. The boys are also taught good sportsmanship and leadership. Three periods a week they have instruction in health. During this time they study about the different organs and systems in the body and how these systems function. Some classes are instructed in first aid so they can be prepared in case of an emergency. The senior high boys also have a course in mental health, with emphasis on the development of good mental hygiene.

This health program aims to give the student a complete picture of the human body, its functions and its working, to aid his better understanding of himself.

Dave Stalks works out on the rings, gaining muscular coordination at the same time he acquires proficiency in gymnastics.

Mary Kay Martin places a part of "Esmerelda" in position as the other girls look on.

Nancy Orga, Maggie Zook, and Janet Miller are showing the other girls the steps to the first record for May Day.

In the Junior High School the girl's physical education classes are under the direction of Mrs. Wolf. Here, the emphasis is placed on gymnastic work instead of team sports. By the time a girl has completed 9th grade, she has been taught numerous gymnastic stunts as well as basketball and softball.

The health classes, also taught by Mrs. Wolf, are much like the Senior High health program. applicable for future use; they are ready to face any scientific challenges that come their way.

Girls' physical education classes are under the direction of Mrs. Barr in the Senior High School.

Through a very comprehensive program a girl takes part in and learns the rules of various sports such as volley ball, softball, soccer, and basketball.

The study of health is also included in the physical education program. Its object is to give the girls a complete knowledge of the human body and how it works.

An after school activity open to senior high girls is Girls' Athletic Association. Girls participate in various sports run on an elimination basis.

Mrs. Barr, the club sponsor, is assisted by girls belonging to Leaders Club. The Leaders referee games, keep score and time, and supervise girls in games and skills. The biggest project of Leaders Club is a football dance, at which time a King and Queen of football are crowned.

Service

Around Shaler there are many services rendered that keep the school running smoothly. The people responsible for these services are: the janitors, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, the nurse, and two librarians. There are 16 janitors under the direction of Mr. Williams who are responsible for a clean and repaired school. The bus drivers make four trips a day to transport secondary and elementary pupils. The cafeteria has been doing an excellent job of serving 950 students per day. The nurse aids all the students for minor illnesses and first aid. Last but not least, our two capable librarians have helped greatly in finding special materials for students.

School Board

Shaler's School Board consists of men and women elected by the residents of the township to assume the responsibilities of providing the best possible education for the youth of the community. In the monthly meeting held at the Jeffery Elementary School, the future plans and policies as well as the current questions of budget, educational practices and procedures must be formulated and carried out in the best interests of the majority of citizens. On the current level, the board has to decide how much money the schools require for the next year, and just how that money shall be expended; on the long term level, the board has to decide how many schools, and of what type and in what location, will be required ten or fifteen years from now. Just now they are watching their plans for the junior high on Scott Avenue, a project long in the talking and planning stages, become reality. All this demands much diversified information, special aptitudes or skills, and, especially, deep devotion to the cause of education in Shaler.

Dr. J. N. Johnson is the supervisor of education for the Shaler Schools.

Mr. R. C. Rogers, Supervising Principal of Shaler Township Schools, has the task of administering the evergrowing school system.

A Dedication

The class of 1958 takes great pride in dedicating this year's issue of SHALERESQUE to Miss Mary Ruth Jeffery. She has been a well-known and well-loved teacher, principal and friend in Shaler High School since she first came in 1932. In appreciation of 32 years of service to Shaler, the community named a beautiful new school, the Jeffery Public School, in her honor. This year will mark the 35th year for Miss Jeffery in the field of teaching, and she plans to retire at the end of the term. Miss Jeffery has also been chosen as "teacher of the year" from Allegheny County and now she goes on to state competition to compete against 66 other teachers. We all join in expressing our appreciation to Miss Jeffery for a job well done and in wishing her the best of luck in her future endeavors.

Miss Jeffery works busily on one of the many duties of her job as principal.

Miss Mary Ruth Jeffery, Principal of Shaler High School 1932-1958.

Miss Jeffery and Mr. Winkler prepare for the morning announcements at the Public Address System.

Mr. Boyer goes over the current schedule with Miss Jeffery.

After the dismissal bell rings the students' day is ended, but for many of the faculty members the day is not ended. Mr. Ford goes to Pittsburgh Academy several nights a week to teach algebra and geometry. Miss Hannah Bechtel is finishing an English textbook. Mr. Yenias and Mrs. Pink are working on their masters degrees. Mr. Segina, Mr. Dixon, and Mr. Gorman are doing graduate work at Pitt. Mrs. Haas is completing the requirements for the master of letters degree at Pitt also.

Many of our teachers travel at home and abroad. Miss Emerick, our librarian, spent July and August touring Europe. This tour was sponsored by the National Education Association, and guided by Mr. Auld. Mr. Auld, who has been a tour leader for several years, is planning to go again this year. One of our new teachers, Miss Aaron, is also an experienced traveler. On her most recent trip, she toured Italy, Austria, Germany and the cities of Copenhagen and Amsterdam. Both Mr. Auld and Miss Aaron have fine collections of slides, which they have shown to various school and community groups.

Mr. Bell takes time out to relax and read the paper in the Men's Faculty Room.

Many teachers spend their vacation working. Mr. Little works on his farm in Westmorland county. Mr. Chadderdon was a craft counselor at a private boys camp, and he hopes to return this summer.

Congratulations are in order to several of our teachers. Miss Snider and Mr. Wolf were married in February and are now living in the East End. Mr. and Mrs. Confer are the proud parents of a boy who was born in November.

Since this is Miss Jeffery's last year at Shaler, she has been chosen the North Hill's Woman's Club's candidate for the Teacher of the Year award. This is held in the county and the winner of it is entered in the state contest. The winner of the state contest goes on to the national one. Miss Jeffery has already won the county contest and is now entered in the state. The prize for winning the state contest is a trip to Europe. Everyone in both the school and the community is hoping that Miss Jeffery will win this award which she certainly deserves.

Seniors

Looking over our years at Shaler, we the seniors remember all the important and exciting events that have made them memorable years to all of us. In our sophomore year we had a "Kid's party." The girls wore gayly colored pinafores and they fixed their hair in pigtails and pony tails. It seemed as though everyone brought all-day lollipops. The fellows came in Bermuda shorts of one color and knee socks of another.

When we were juniors, we received our class rings with great enthusiasm. Then came the junior play "Best Foot Forward" which was a huge success. The most exciting event was our first prom.

Our senior year began with selling at the concession stands during the football games. Following the football season came our production of the "Ten Little Indians." The Washington-New York trip was a wonderful experience for all of us. Our annual May Day event this year was held in Miss Jeffery's honor, as this was her last year at Shaler. The year ended with the rush of commencement activities—the prom at the Penn-Sheraton, Baccalaureate, and, finally commencement itself, held on our football field. This week-end of wonderful events made a long to-be-remembered climax for our years at Shaler.

Mrs. Corda and Mr. Campbell, sponsors of the Class of '58, check the records of class affairs preparatory to making a final report to the class.

Closing

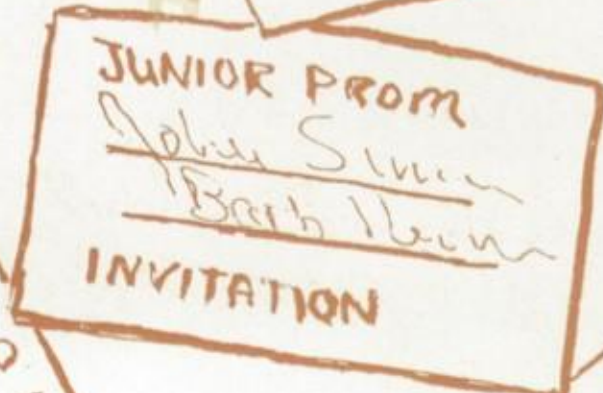

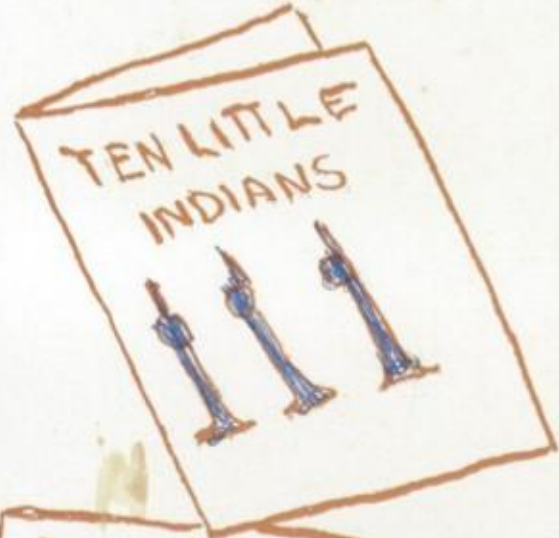

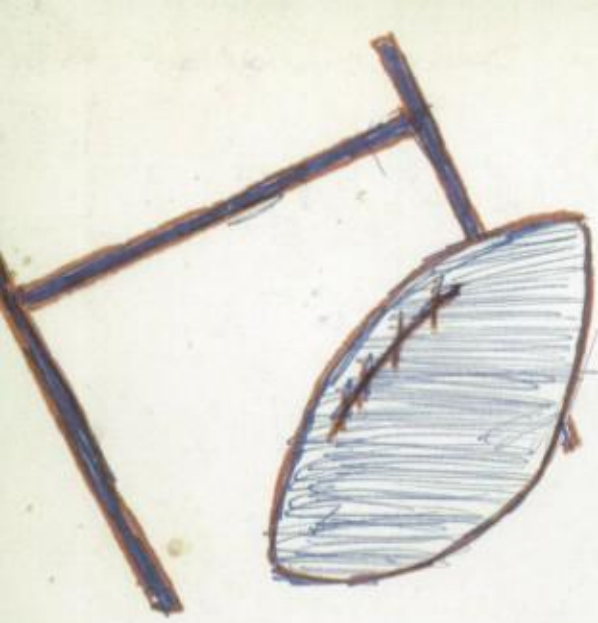

So closes our presentation of the events, places, and people that give Shaler its personality and make it a distinctive and individual school—our alma mater.

We hope that you, like us, will find that the happenings we thought made the school year 1957-58 memorable will serve in later years to bring back to you pleasant memories of a year spent among friends at Shaler.

Pat,
Remembers all
the fun we used to have. I wonder what ever happened to the Hams. Remember Ronnie (knew could you forget him, but I'll help you try) Remember all the good times we had at lunch and the notes we used to write. Remember the little who stood in the hall every day. Don't you think Kathy & little stunt make a good pair. Remember our ice cream. That hard stuff.
I don't have time to write more now but I have to the rest of this page. I am again its save now to finish after the day I wrote the rest of it off good because we good friends and here I am again I'm just hull shutter well I am I don't guess you think write but I gotta fill the page. I'll write and write and write a second I have to go yet. I have a damn thing hold it back. I ain't I don't I'll write and write.
I'll be back. I ain't I don't I'll write and write.
more to have anything left now to say have at all I don't I'll write and write.
shake I guess I'll close

Pat,
 Best of luck to a nice girl. Remember the fun we had in history good luck with the schools the boys
 (Don't forget "Lomakers") stores are the best. as long as you come in we won't go broke
 Lots of Love
 Patty

To Pat, Best of luck to a swell kid. Remember all the good times we had together and I hope we have many more together. Remember Mr. Always Sally
 really good show

*Pat
I hope you are*

Remember ^{Pat} Jerry and all the laughs we enjoyed in her class. Be good and remember me.
as always,
Leo

Pat -

Lots of luck in the future in Blackboard Jungle.
Best wishes for you and the "Carni-fellow."
